

Independent Pre-Delivery Inspections for Used Cranes by German Experts

Don't pay good money for a bad crane.

Buying a used crane—whether it's a mobile crane, truck-mounted crane, tower crane, or all-terrain model—comes with risk. Cranes operate under extreme conditions, and poor maintenance is more common than you think. Hidden defects like cracked booms, leaking transmissions, or damaged ropes can cost you thousands in repairs. Even small issues such as worn brakes or faulty gauges can quickly add up.

That's where we come in.

At Mevas, our independent third-party inspections are carried out by experienced German engineers who specialize in used cranes and lifting equipment. We provide unbiased, expert assessments so you can make informed purchasing decisions and avoid costly surprises.

How It Works

1. Found a crane? Contact us.

Send us the vendor's name and contact details. We'll handle the rest.

2. We schedule the inspection.

Our inspector will coordinate with the seller to prepare the crane for a full check—ensuring an experienced operator is available.

3. We inspect every detail.

- Configuration and serial number verification
- Visual inspection for cracks, leaks, and wear
- Full operational testing of hydraulic systems, booms, ropes, and LMB
- Carrier inspection including brakes and transmission

4. You receive a detailed report.

We deliver a comprehensive written report with findings, photos of all issues, and professional recommendations.
